

BBC Choose Brandon Medical Again

The BBC have chosen Brandon Medical operating lights again, this time to be installed in the new Obstetrics & Gynaecology Theatre at South Central Infirmary – the location of BAFTA-nominated drama Bodies. This order came about from the success of previous installations in Holby City Hospital, including several lights in the Casualty Department.

The light itself is the new Galaxy Ultra 30D Mobile – the latest surgical light from Brandon Medical. This light offers many unique features which contributed toward its being chosen to star on the BBC – including an extra-long arm for extended reach over an operating table, a reduced “footprint” base which allows a surgeon to get closer to the light without any trip-risk, and the renowned Brandon Medical Galaxy Ultra modular lamp-head.

The BBC is just one of the many companies who have become repeat customers of Brandon Medical. Their reputation for customer service, speed of delivery and reliability has been built on cases such as this and looks set to grow in the future.

The new series of Bodies, featuring the Galaxy Ultra 30D Mobile, will hit your screens later this year.
